HAIL, CALEDONIA!

Hail, Caledonia! land of my childhood,
Home of my birth, so radiant and fair.
Though I have roam'd through the world and its beauties,
Nowhere on earth with thee can compare.
Thou art majestic and regal in splendor,
Thou art the land of the gallant and free,
Lassies with hearts, aye, so true and so tender,
Hail Caledonia! How I love thee!

CHORUS.

Let the Irish sing of their Em'rald Isle
Where the four leav'd shamrock grows,
Let the English praise their valleys and braes,
And the bonny blooming rose,
But give me the land of the heather and the kilt,
The mountain and the river,
For the blood leaps in my veins
When I hear the bagpipe's strains;
Scotland, dear old Scotland forever!

Hail, Caledonia! birthplace of heroes
Whose names are inscribed on the parchment of fame;
Heroes whose lives were a noble example
That others might follow and honor thy name.
Scotchmen, I give you a toast, make it your toast
Fill up your glasses, aye, full to the brim:
Here's to Auld Scotland, her lads and her lassies
Long rule Britannia! God save the King!

3.

Hail, Caledonia! thy name acts like magic
On each Scottish heart when they're far o'er the sea.
Down in the South when their day's work is over,
Their thoughts turn back, dear old Scotland to thee.
Thy sons are respected and lov'd o'er the world.
A Scotchman is always so staunch and so true,
And if in battle his standard's unfur'd
He'll give his life's blood, Caledonia for you.

—Hugh Ogilvie.

Respectfully dedicated to William Steele, Esqr.
